Railroad Shops To Stay in Bucyrus, Judge Rules

Injunction Against Removal to Collinwood Made Permanent in Upholding Old Contract; New York Central To Appeal.

By International News Service

BUCYRUS, O., May 21—Ruling that the New York Central railroad must carry out the provisions of a contract it made with the city of Bucyrus 50 years ago, Judge C. U. Ahl today issued a permanent injunction restraining the railroad from moving its locomotive repair shops to Collinwood, in Cleveland.

Under terms of his ruling the New York Central must maintain perpetual operation of its shops here, since, the judge found, that promise was made when the city donated land for a site for the shops in the 1880's.

Waiving further pleading here, attorneys for the railroad announced they will carry the case to the district court of appeals.

Yesterday the federal court at Cleveland remanded the case to the Crawford county common pleas court for disposition. The case went to the federal court on application of the railroad company several weeks ago. Efforts of the Bucyrus city solicitor were responsible for the return of the case from Cleveland.

City Victories Continue

Judge Ahl's decision marked another victory for the city in a legal fight started several months ago to prevent the railroad from taking its "back shops" away from Bucyrus.

Threatened with a court controversy when plans for the removal were announced, the railroad offered to settle with the city for $50,000.

When city officials rejected the offer, railroad attorneys tried to bring a suit in federal court, but failed to obtain a hearing there when Federal Judge Paul Jones in Cleveland said the federal court was without authority to act in the fight.

Railroad officials desired the removal, they said, "for convenience." They declared the work might be better handled in Collinwood.

The contract, however, drawn up between what was then the village of Bucyrus and the T. & O. C. railroad, provided for the payment by Bucyrus to the road of $50,000 in municipal bonds, voted by the people, to erect its roundhouse and shops here, and to man and operate them perpetually.

When the construction work was completed, Bucyrus officials deeded the site to the railroad.

Under further provision of the contract, any violation by the railroad would entitle Bucyrus to claim all the company's lands, buildings, equipment, tracks and machinery and forfeit, according to attorneys.

OHIO INDUSTRY VIEWS STATED

Executive Secretary Voices Strong Opposition to Income Levies.

VIEWS ARE CONFLICTING

Merchants and Farmers Differ with Other Interests; Bank Deposit Tax Opposed.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., May 21—Ohio manufacturers are solidly opposed to an income tax and if they had surmised that any such system would be created they would not have supported the tax classification amendment in 1929, Warren F. Perry, executive secretary of the Ohio Manufacturers' association, told the joint legislative committees today.

"We are persuaded from our study of the tax measures that it has been the effort of this committee to make an equitable distribution of the tax burden, and in this we are in hearty accord. This policy is in accordance with the understanding of those who advocated the tax amendment. Under the old law 30 per cent of the property in Ohio paid 70 per cent of the taxes. Intangible property variously estimated to be from 15 to 20 billion dollars, with the exception of a billion on the duplicate, has escaped taxation under the uniform rule."

The attitude of the manufacturers is in full accord with that of the Chamber of Commerce, whose executive secretary, George B. Chandler, declared a few days ago that a personal income tax would not yield enough money and that a corporation income tax would be "intolerable."

During the public hearings on the measures this week Ohio merchants and farmers have pledged themselves in favor of an income tax while the chamber of commerce and the bankers have approved, with reservations, the program of the special legislative tax committee, including a low rate on all forms of intangibles.

Certain administrative provisions of the intangible bill, the centralization of assessments on business property with the state tax commission and the rate of levying against such property drew objections from the chamber of commerce.

Oppose Bank Deposit Tax

The bankers found fault with the proposed 2-mill tax on deposits and while they did not strenuously oppose this tax they warned the committees that if any higher rate is levied the depositors will have to pay the tax.

The manufacturers are interested in obtaining more relief for industry by lessening collections from property used in business.

POLICE HUNT SLAYER OF TWO

GANG REVENGE BLAMED

Death Thwarts Victim's Promise To Reveal Gunman to Authorities.

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, Calif., May 21—Assassination of Herbert Spencer, magazine editor and crusader against organized gambling, and his friend, Charles Crawford, wealthy politician, started police today on one of the greatest manhunts ever undertaken in Los Angeles.

On the eve of a projected expose of gambling by Spencer's magazine, the editor was shot through the heart and the politician was mortally wounded last night in the latter's office by an unidentified man whom Crawford had received. Officers said the circumstances indicated gangster revenge.

Crawford died refusing to name the killer, although previously he indicated he might talk. The slayer escaped in an automobile. Apparently confident that he would live, Crawford told detectives before he underwent an emergency operation that he would tell only "If I'm due to go." He died three hours after being wounded.

Search Gang Haunts

Early today detectives, spurred by a statement from Spencer's widow that "the overlord of gambling here had threatened to get Herb," searched haunts of gamblers and gangsters for a "swarthy man about 35 years old of heavy build."

An hour before the tragedy, Spencer, formerly city editor of the Los Angeles Evening Express, left his office telling an associate that he was going out to get some more "underworld stuff" for the magazine, which had published a number of articles on alleged gang and vice activities here.

Ray J. Radke, secretary of Crawford, reported to police that shortly after Spencer entered Crawford's office a man appeared and asked to see Crawford.

Crawford greeted the visitor at the door of his private office and asked him to enter. Radke said the men talked about an hour. Suddenly two shots rang out. Radke heard a scream and a yell from Spencer: "Get that fellow." The door burst open and the gunman fled to the street. Radke rushed into the office and found Spencer dead. Crawford, sitting in his chair, arose and collapsed.

Had Revealed Threats

Recently Spencer had written of threats on his life. As though he feared they might be carried out, he added in these stories that there was "in a certain bank" a box containing the names and full information about those who had been touched by the exposures. Police began a search for the box.

Barton Reveals Love for Lost Wife in Suicide Note

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, May 21—Ralph Barton's remorse over failure to appreciate "a beautiful lost angel" was revealed today in a note written before he took his life in his penthouse apartment.

The note identified the "angel" as "Carlotta," referring to the famous caricaturist's third wife, now married to Eugene O'Neill, playwright. Mr. and Mrs. O'Neill recently arrived in New York from France.

Headed "obit," the note said in part:

"I have had a few real difficulties. I have had, on the contrary, an exceptionally glamorous life, as life goes; and I have had more than my share of affection and appreciation.

"I have always had excellent health, but since my early childhood I have suffered from a melancholia, which in the last five years has begun to show definite symptoms of maniac-depressive insanity.

Failed To Enjoy Life

"It has prevented my getting anything like the full value out of my talent, and the past three years has made work a torture to do at all. It has made it impossible for me to enjoy the simple pleasures of life. I have run from wife to wife, from house to house and from country to country in a ridiculous effort to escape from myself. In doing so I am very much afraid that I have brought Wife Brings Separation Suit Against Graham McNamee.

CHARGES NOT DISCLOSED

Friends Who Regarded Wedded Life Near Perfection Are Surprised.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, May 21—A separation suit brought by Mrs. Josephine Garrett McNamee against Graham McNamee, popular radio announcer was revealed today. The charges in the complaint, which has been on file in supreme court for several weeks, were not disclosed.

McNamee said he had been served with the papers about the first of the month. He denied that the action was by mutual consent and said it would not be contested.

Married 10 Years

They were married 10 years ago after meeting at a concert in the Dutch Reformed church in Bronxville, N. Y., where both were on a musical program. McNamee was a baritone singer before he became an announcer.

Disclosure of the separation suit came as a surprise to their friends, among whom they were described as an ideally married couple.

In the current issue of Radio Digest, Mrs. McNamee has an article describing the life of a radio announcer's wife:

"I make it a point to keep the hours he keeps and to entertain our friends when it is convenient for him. Many a time I have made pancakes and fried egg sandwiches at 4 o'clock in the morning.

Never Out of Hearing

"Although Graham's work takes him away a great deal, I have one advantage over other wives. I can always hear him. The first thing he does when he finishes a broadcast is to telephone me and say, 'did you hear the program? How was it?'"

McNamee is 42 years old. In 1912 he became a choir singer in a New Jersey church and was with various musical organizations. He became a radio announcer in 1923 and soon was the best known member of his profession.

FUND GROUPS SET TO TAKE FIELD IN DRIVE FOR $73,397

Campaign Proper To Open Monday Morning with Early Bird Breakfast at Marion Club; To Report Each Day.

SPECIAL GIFTS DIVISION BEGINS TODAY

Organization of nearly 300 workers who will participate in Marion's 1931 Community Fund drive was practically completed today. Final plans of the campaign for $73,397 to finance the activities of nine fund agencies during the next 12 months have been made.

Confidence that the goal will be attained before the drive closes late next week in spite of adverse conditions was expressed today by Wilbur Symes, general chairman in charge of all divisions.

Drive Opens Monday

The major phase of the drive will begin Monday morning when 200 workers invade Marion business and residential sections after a rousing "early bird" breakfast at the Marion club. The workers will report each day.

One division of the army began work this morning. It is the special gifts committee in charge of H. B. Hane, chairman. After a meeting last night at the Marion club for a final revision of plans, the division began work today. Its committee of 40 men will solicit special gifts from 175 persons before the drive closes.

Close on the heels of this division is the employes division headed by A. W. Newby, who tonight will meet his majors and captains at the Marion club to give final instructions. This group of more than 40 will give employes of Marion industries and large business concerns an opportunity to contribute to the fund through an internal plant setup headed by one of their own workers. This plan has been adopted as most convenient to both the fund workers and employes.

Organize Men

Tonight is expected to see the organization of the men's territorial division, headed by Rev. Lawrence A. Wood, complete. Only the naming of a small group of team workers remains to be done. These workers will solicit every person in the uptown business area of the city when the public appeal begins next Monday morning. Approximately 100 men have pledged their services in this division.

Mrs. H. K. Mouser, head of the women's territorial division, hoped to be able to announce the names of all team workers under her command by Friday morning. One hundred women in this division will carry the drive in the residential districts of the city.

For the third year, the small red feather will be the sign of a sub-

AIR ARMADA OVER CHICAGO

FLY IN SEPARATE UNITS

Bombers, Attackers and Pursuit Craft Appear in Warlike Array.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, May 21—A proud armada of the nation's fighting aircraft streaked through the skies of America's inland metropolis today. It was the army's greatest demonstration of its air strength.

Over Chicago's lake front 659 planes paraded in formation serenading thousands of watchers with their deep voices. Speedy pursuit ships sang a high tenor to the deep baritone hum of the majestic bombers.

Thousands of Spectators

Michigan boulevard skyscrapers emptied their offices of thousands as the planes appeared from the north, where the aerial procession had formed after a wide circular movement from the five airports in which they had concentrated yesterday from Dayton.

Major Davenport Johnson of Galveston led the great procession with the third attack group of 70 planes from Fort Crockett.

Following the attack group was the second bombardment group from Langley field, Virginia, flying lower than the leaders about 800 feet from the earth and a quarter mile out over the lake. The droning bombers flew in columns or three, 50 to 60 in each group.

Speedboats darted over the lake, and amphibians zoomed low over the water to be ready for instant rescue in event of any mishap. The air was bumpy, and the planes moved in loose formation, spaced widely and with bombers, attackers, pursuit planes separated. Through the speeding mass darted planes carrying photographers, like falcons attacking an orderly flight of geese.

Brigadier General Benjamin D. Foulois commanding the division, surveyed the demonstration from the roof of the Hotel Stevens with his staff. There were no fighting maneuvers, no firing of aircraft guns. The army had undertaken to demonstrate the speed with which it could mass its power to defend an inland center of population. Its entire strength had been concentrated at Dayton, O., focused here in a single day and sent into the air to parade its power before an imagined challenger.

PATROL PICTURE IN NATIONAL MAGAZINE

The picture of the school boy patrol of Central Junior High school appeared in the June issue of "Safety Education," published by the educational division of the National Safety council.

There are 35 boys from the eighth and ninth grades of the school in the patrol of which Miss Grace Colvin is advisor. The patrol has its traffic court in which violators of the regulations are tried before the judges, William Hagan and Karl Bechtle. The patrol is divided into sub-patrols which are shifted every three weeks.

Two of the boys are stationed on either side of Center street at Union street three feet from the curbs, at noon and at night to direct traffic while the students are crossing the street. The city police department works in cooperation with the patrol and to date three drivers have paid fines of $10 in police court for failing to observe the directions of the boys.

Fifty cases of school regulation violations have been tried in the school court since the patrol was organized a week before Christmas vacation.

The patrol is distinguished by white Sam Brown belts. Its jurisdiction also includes the conduct of the children in the school building and on the recreation grounds and in rainy weather the patrol keeps order in the school building before classes convene at the morning and noon hours. Kenneth Jerew is president of the patrol. Karl Bechtle is vice president and Rennix VanScoy is secretary.

A similar patrol is organized at St. Mary's parochial school, and boys are stationed at Prospect and George streets and Main and George streets, to direct traffic. Central Junior High school and St. Mary's school have the only two patrols in the city.

Legality, Not Size, Point In Raichley Fee Suit

Court Holds Executors Had Right To Pay Attorneys for Services; Judges Call Attention to Lack of Testimony To Prove Payments Excessive.

Whether the executors had a right to special fees to themselves and their attorneys was the point involved between the executors and the Masonic Temple Co. in the battle of the Raichley will contest carried through three courts, which yesterday was decided by the fourth district court of appeals in favor of the executors and attorneys.

The battle began when the Masonic company filed exceptions to the first and fourth accounts of the executors, showing that approximately $30,000 in special attorneys' fees had been paid to defend the Raichley will. A quarter of a million dollars against efforts of the relatives to break the will, went to the Masonic Temple Co., beneficiary.

"The circumstances at the base of this controversy are unusual. Burr Raichley was an eccentric citizen of Marion, worth about $250,000 consisting of valuable real estate and first class securities, with no relatives nearer than first cousins, when on Jan. 4, 1924, he made a will by which he bequeathed a few thousand dollars to a few relatives and others and left the residue of his estate to the Marion Masonic Temple Co. He named Harry J. Merchant and Clyde C. Smith as his executors. A few days after making the will a guardian was appointed for Burr Raichley and March 9, 1924, he died.

Relatives Contest Will

"Some of the next of kin brought an action to contest the will in the United States district court at Toledo, and about the same time another proceeding to contest was brought in the court of common pleas at Marion. Counsel who were actively engaged in the case in the federal courts were J. H. Eymon, John Bartram, F. E. Guthery and Grant E. Mouser. These attorneys succesfully attacked the jurisdiction of the federal courts, the question being litigated through the district court, the circuit court of appeals and in the supreme court of the United States. Following this the contestants brought suit in the Marion common pleas court. This case was transferred on the application of the contestants to Wyandot county. At that time A. K. Hall, an attorney of Wyandot county, was taken into the case.

"While the case was in process of trial at Upper Sandusky a settlement was accomplished by which it was agreed that the contestants should be paid $60,000, about one-fourth the value of the estate. An agreed verdict sustaining the will then was returned in the common pleas court of Wyandot county June 12, 1928.

"For these legal services the executors paid to Mr. Hall $2,000, and to Mouser, Young and Mouser $5,500, J. H. Eymon $1,000, John H. Bartram $8,500, and Fred E. Guthery $8,500.

Payments Assailed

"These several payments, and some others made to Mr. Eymon in the second account, were assailed by the Temple company exceptions made and sustained in the probate court. The exceptors claimed first that the executors had no right or power to pay any attorney fees for the defense of the will, and second that the amounts so paid were unreasonably high.

"The record contains no testimony to show that the fees were excessive. When the character of the case is considered, its course through the federal courts and in the state courts, the length of time, the amount involved, the character and ability of counsel, and the result attained, it is naturally enough inferred that no such testimony could have been had. The exceptors, therefore, in fact stood upon their challenge of the executors' legal right to pay any attorney fees, and in this they were sustained by the probate court.

"Affirming the probate court, the common pleas court took the same view. The question before this court now is, not whether the amount of the fees paid was excessive, but whether the executors had any power to pay any fees at all.

"As to the first claim it is complained that neither the probate court nor the Masonic Temple Co. were consulted about the amount of the fees at the time they were paid or before, and that the amount was fixed by the executors and paid by them without any authority either by the court or of the interested parties.

Question of Employment

"As to the second claim, the undisputed testimony is that the executors employed all of the counsel mentioned, and that they being aware that they had no power to bind the estate in case the will was not sustained an understanding was had with counsel that the executors would not be held for the payment of fees in case the will was not sustained. It is argued, however, that this action upon the part of the executors was an intrusion into the contest proceeding because the Masonic Temple Co. had already employed counsel, was making its own defense, and that there was no occasion for any activity on the part of the executors.

"The record shows nothing actively done by any member of the board of directors of the temple company except that the secretary of that board had a few conferences with Mr. Mouser, and very many conferences with Mr. Eymon who was admittedly employed by the executors and never by the temple company. Outside of this the record shows nothing done by any member of the board of directors of the temple company except the adoption of a resolution by that board on March 10, 1927, in which Mr. Bartram, Mr. Guthery and Mr. Mouser were authorized to defend the will for the temple company.

"This resolution, or the fact of its adoption, was never transmitted to the executors nor to the attorneys, and how far it was disclosed to the interested attorneys is not clear although it may be assumed that these attorneys or some of them knew of the terms of the resolution, for it was apparently by its authority that the litigation was settled in the court at Upper Sandusky.

"Assuming that the attorneys were bound by their implied acceptance of the terms of this resolution they were by the same token authorized to join with the executors in making the defense, and fully authorized, among other things, to accept employment by the executors. There is not only nothing to indicate an abuse of the powers conferred upon them by the resolution in so cooperating with the executors but there is much to show the wisdom of so doing. It is apparent from the condition that existed at that time that much of the burden of his defense rested upon the executors. They apparently knew more about the case than anyone else, and their full and lively cooperation was requisite to the successful defense of the case. The executors were consequently strictly within the line of their duty in employing counsel, and the attorneys properly exercised the powers conferred upon them by the resolution in accepting that employment, and as the payments made were entirely reasonable as determined by the undisputed testimony, the exceptions running to attorney fees should have been overruled.

On Different Footing

"Mr. Eymon and Mr. Hall stand upon an entirely different footing, but if possible there is even more reason for overruling the exceptions as to them than to the other reason for overruling the exceptions as to them than to the other attorneys mentioned.

"The other exceptions, sustained in the courts below, ran to the extra compensation paid by the executors to themselves. Again we have the question of procedure. It is argued that their claim for extra compensation should have been first presented to the probate court. That is one way, and a very proper way, but an equally valid and very usual way is for the executors to make payment to themselves, leaving the question open to be determined by exceptions to their account. The probate court allowed some extra compensation to the executors, as it was bound to do under the circumstances. It did not allow all that the executors claimed in this behalf, on the ground that the executors were entitled to nothing for the very great efforts made by them in defense of the will in the litigation referred to. The evidence is that the extra compensation claimed by the executors was not in excess of the value of the services rendered by them in that behalf, nor did the probate court in its opinion find that the charges made were excessive. It only determined that they were unlawful. Finding, as we do, that they were entitled to the value of their services in that behalf and that the court error was not one of fact but one of law exclusively, it is now determined that the exceptions in that respect should have been overruled.

"The judgment of the probate court in sustaining the exceptions, and that of the common pleas in affirming that judgment, are both reversed and this case is remanded to the probate court with instructions that all of the exception be overruled."

Advanced Refrigeration

On smooth steel rails foods slide in and out of Frigidaire!

Easy-riding, one-way rails on all food shelves are one of the very real advantages of Frigidaire Advanced Refrigeration. There are many others. It is these major improvements, developed by Frigidaire, that have made household refrigeration so healthful, convenient and economical. We invite you to come in and learn about them.

Push a heavy bowl of soup-stock into a Frigidaire—it doesn't stutter its way to the back of the shelf—slopping over as it goes. It doesn't ask to be lifted into place, either. It slides along as smoothly and silently as a Cadillac on a concrete road!

And when you want it again it doesn't have to be coaxed to come out—it seems absolutely eager to obey your guiding hand . . . This is because Frigidaire Food Shelves are made of smooth steel rails all running one way—from front to back. There are no crinkly crossbars for dishes to stumble over and stub against.

Now, in themselves, easy-riding rails on food shelves are small things. But they are one of the many things that go to make Frigidaire Convenience, which (millions of women will tell you) is a Very Big Thing, indeed!

SHORTAGE OF FUNDS IS FACED BY BOARD

Board Cuts Salaries for 1931 10 Per Cent; Three-Mill Levy Needed.

MT. GILEAD, May 21—Failure of the electors of the Cardington school district to approve a renewal of the special three-mill levy at the election last fall has resulted in the financial embarrassment, members of the board of education state.

It would have been impossible to have opened the schools there this fall if the state department of education had not guaranteed the advancement of sufficient funds to carry the schools through until the voters have another opportunity to approve a renewal of the expired three-mill levy, they said.

In employing teachers this week the board made a 10 per cent reduction of salary in every position in the schools in order to keep within the funds available.

Miss Margaret Ferguson, music supervisor in the schools, has resigned and no successor has yet been employed. The band music instruction will again be under E. J. Fitchhorn of Delaware. Other teachers employed include Rolland Thompson, principal; D. B. Noble, coach and commercial; Charles H. Lewis, manual arts and science; Emma May Pfeifer, Latin and English; Judith Whitney, mathematics and Spanish; Beatrice Weller, home economics and English.

C. M. Beitler, who has held the superintendency of the schools for 10 years has accepted another one year contract. The elementary teachers will be Eva Worthington, Helen Coomer, seventh and eighth grades, Opal Trease, seventh and eighth grades; Alice Brollier, sixth; Pearl Tuttle, fifth; Mamie E. Payne, fourth, Carrie Philbrook, third; Mary Farrington, second; and Beatrice Custer, first.

Old Sore Tortured For 30 Years

She Is Happy Now

For 30 long, pain-tortured years, Mrs. J. C. Henderson of North Carolina had an ulcer on her ankle —no matter what treatment she tried or amount of money she spent—nothing helped her distressing condition.

Someone suggested Peterson's Ointment to her — she admits she was doubtful but she was so discouraged with this never-ceasing agony she was willing to try anything.

Before Mrs. Henderson had finished her second box of Peterson's the ulcer had completely disappeared—she was overjoyed to think that at last she could enjoy living.

Peterson's Ointment accomplishes these near miracles because it's so powerfully healing. Even one application instantly relieves the pain and soreness of bruises, piles, boils —a few days treatment entirely banishes pimples, blackheads—even the long standing cases. A 35c box proves it—all drugstores.—Adv.

Representative Has Owl as Passenger to Capital

KENTON, May 21—Representative Eliza Limes of Hardin county, had a "thumber" as a passenger when he drove to Columbus from his home at Ridgeway to attend the legislative session.

The "thumber," however, wasn't the usual kind.

It was a screech owl that Limes found first on the running board of his automobile in his garage when he started from his home. Thinking the owl would abandon the car after he started, Limes pulled out of his garage without disturbing it. When he reached Columbus the owl was still on the running board.

If you've ever taken Bayer Aspirin for a headache, you know how soon the pain subsides. It is just as effective in the relief of those pains peculiar to women!

Don't dedicate certain days of every month to suffering. It's old-fashioned. It's unnecessary. Aspirin will always enable you to carry on in comfort. Take enough to assure your complete comfort. If it is genuine aspirin it cannot possibly hurt you. Bayer Aspirin does not depress the heart. It does not upset the stomach. It does nothing but stop the pain.

Headaches come at inconvenient times. So do colds. But a little Bayer Aspirin will always save the day. A throat so sore you can hardly swallow is made comfortable with one good gargle made from these tablets. Neuralgia. Neuritis. Rheumatism. Pains that once kept people home are forgotten half an hour after taking a few of these remarkable tablets. So are the little nagging aches that bring fatigue and "nerves" by day, or a sleepless night.

Genuine Bayer Aspirin tablets cost so very little after all, that it doesn't pay to experiment with imitations!

SCOUTING IS CHARACTER BUILDER

Here is a representative group of Boy Scouts, a few of the 289 Marion youths whose lives are rounded out and made more complete by the scouting program financed by the Marion Community Fund. In this typical group one finds an archery fan, a radio enthusiast, a lad with an eye for bridge building and engineering, and nature students, as evidenced by the result of their handicraft shown in the photograph. It is this type of work, classified as character building, that has made Warden Preston Thomas of the Ohio State penitentiary declare that no Scout or man who had been a Scout has ever served a sentence in that institution. Scouting activities in Marion last year were financed on a Community Fund budget of $7,994. This year, scouts are asking for $6,260.

BY BOB KIRKPATRICK

So far so good. For the most part predictions both concerning the daily winners and probable league champions are coming through in good shape. There is still a big chance that both of them will be knocked galley west by results of future games but as things are running smoothly right now I thought I ought to tell you about it

To date 13 of 21 predictions as to results of daily games have been correct Not being a mathematician I am unable to figure out the percentage of that so if you want it you'll have to ask some one to figure it out for you. That's what I am going to do.

With the exception of a single league, things are also going along very well in regards to probable league titlists. The No. 2 Sunday school league seems to be taking a few exceptions to my predictions by producing exactly the opposite. Forest Lawn, co-favorite to win the title has already dropped one decision and nearly lost another. The First Presbyterians alone are holding up my predictions that they would finish at the top or quite close to it.

In the No. 1 Sunday school league St. Mary and Trinity Baptist are living up to expectations by moving along at a break-neck pace, both having won two games in as many starts Both look like a sure bet to win a lot more and it wouldn't be at all surprising to see them battle it out for the league gonfalon

John Clark's team has taken an awful flop from its usual lofty perch, having dropped two in a row. Lee street has already found the going plenty rough in the No. 1 circuit and the Bishops are showing better form than last year although they have played but a single game Yes, the boys are doing quite well by my predictions in the No. 1 circuit.

Unless a few of the Industrial league teams pull off some surprises, there should be little difficulty in naming the winners of the four games booked for today. Here they are.

Silk Mill to beat C. & O., Huber to beat Fairfield, Roundhouse to beat Cas Company and Steam Shovel to defeat the C., D. & M. Electricians.

BY BOB KIRKPATRICK

Sports Editor, The Star

If there are any recreation baseball fans in the city who had an idea the opening game victory of Trinity Baptists over Lee Street Presbyterians was somewhat of a flash in the pan, these same individuals should be fairly well convinced by now that the Trinity win was on the level after the 7 to 2 shellacking handed the Epworth No. 1 nine yesterday by these same Baptist sluggers. Trintiy jumped onto Zig Snyder for four runs in the first inning of the game yesterday and then coasted through to an easy victory. Gamble replaced Snyder on the mound in the second inning but the Baptists did not treat him in what could be construed as an exactly polite manner.

Calvary Wins Second

In the two other games played yesterday the Calvary Evangelical team whitewashed the Epworth Seniors 4 to 0 to give the losers their second straight loss and St Mary put the skids under the Lutherans 3 to 1.

In drubbing John Clark's protegees, Trinity flashed a brand of play which will go right on winning ball games if kept up to the standard displayed yesterday. The Methodists got just three hits off Applegett, Trinity hurler, two of them by Roseberry, Clark's shortstop. The infield play of the Baptists was little short of brilliant although it must be admitted that a rather slippery ground slowed up the Methodist baserunners to a certain extent. The Baptists reeled off three two-ply killings in as many innings in such faultless form it left the Methodist wondering what it was all about. The Baptist combination of Watt Merchant at short, Staley at second and Bob Merchant looked plenty snappy. Staley boasts an almost perfect pivot form on second for double plays.

Gruber Beats Jones

Rube Gruber opposed Stewart Jones on the mound in the Calvary-Epworth Seniors game, the former winning a four to nothing decision. Gruber silenced the Seniors' bats effectively, allowing only five safe hits while Calvary was clouting the offerings of Jones for 10 safeties and a quartet of runs

For the second consecutive game the Lutherans threatened to stage an upset and beat one of the league favorites but failed by a slight margin to accomplish the feat when the St. Mary Irish rallied and overcame a slim one run lead Inability to hit in the pinches cost St. Mary's several chances to score The Lutherans turned in some flashy fielding to aid their cause.

The Epworth Bishops vs. Lee Street game was postponed for the second time on account of wet grounds at Garfield park.

SPORTSMAN'S Hall of Fame

UP TO this year Trinity Baptist Sunday school has produced a recreation baseball team that was just tough enough to stage an occasional upset but not get very far as far as winning championships was concerned.

This year the Baptists are threatening seriously to do "something." A lot of credit for the team's highly improved play must go to the snappy double play combination of the Merchant brothers and Staley. The three have pepped up the Trinity infield until it doesn't look like the same team as in former years.

Percival, bring on the roses —these three gentlemen are herewith entered in the 1931 Hall of Fame, not only for their excellent work so far this season but for what they are likley to continue doing the rest of the year.

MIAMI FAVORED TO WIN BUCKEYE MEET

Annual Track Carnival Expected To Be Fastest in Years.

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, O., May 21—Athletes in the Buckeye Athletic Association who major in track and field activities, will have their inning Friday and Saturday when they gather here for the annual B. A. A. track and field carnival.

Teams from five Ohio members, Denison, Ohio, Miami, Wesleyan and Cincinnati, and DePauw, one of the new Indiana members, will take part in the meet. Wittenberg and Wabash do not support track teams.

Records made this season indicate that the meet this year will be the fastest in the history of the association, bringing together the greatest collection of stars since the conference was organized several years ago.

Four all-time Buckeye record holders will compete again this year and winners of 11 of the 14 first places in the 1930 meet will again represent their schools. Miami's championship relay team will defend its title in the fifteenth event.

Miami is favored to repeat as champion with Ohio and Wesleyan fighting for second position. Denison, Cincinnati and DePauw have good men in several events but lack balanced strength.

Miami's overwhelming strength of last year will be cut down by lack of reserves to take the lower places but the Redskins should repeat with a majority of firsts.

GROVE STINGY WITH HITS AS ATHLETICS DEFEAT DETROIT 3-0

BY GAYLE TALBOT, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

The New York Giants had a just complaint today against the compiler of baseball's handy reference book. The volume in question is a compact, paper-backed affair that tells you at a glance what club is leading the race.

And what has that to do with the Giants? Just this. Up to yesterday they figured, on the face of things, to be just a half-game behind the St. Louis Cardinals It looked that way. Then they went out and took the Cincinnati Reds, 4 to 0, and the Cardinals obligingly lost to Brooklyn, 5 to 4

That put the McGraw clan out in front and pulled the Cards from the top of the National league for the first time this season That is, it did until the ready reckoner was consulted. It shows that the league champs, though superficially a half-game behind actually still are leading the league by four percentage points today. Hence the Giants' chagrin.

Rookie Comes Through

Although they fell short of their goal, the McGrawmen gained solace in the brilliant pitching of John Berly, recruit from Rochester, who set Cincinnati down with five scattered hits and cinched himself a place as a starting pitcher Bill Terry's homer with two on was the big noise in the Giants' attack.

The Cards went down fighting They rallied in the seventh and ninth innings to tie the count at 4-all, only to see their efforts wasted when the Robins nicked Bill Hallahan for the winning run in the last of the ninth Babe Herman's single scored Fresco Thompson, who had walked, with the deciding run

Buzz Arlett, husky recruit from the coast, poled his eighth and ninth homers of the year as the Phillies came from behind in the late innings to take their second straight from Pittsburgh, 11 to 7. A four-run rally off Willoughby in the eighth decided the issue

Hartnett Leads Cubs

Four runs in the first inning off Frankhouse and McAfee gave the Chicago Cubs a lead that was never overcome as they squared their series at Boston, 7 to 5. Gabby Hartnett hit a homer, double and two singles to lead the winners' assault.

Not to be outdone by his side partner, George Earnshaw, who shut out Detroit with two hits the previous day, Lefty Grove allowed only three blows and gave the Tigers another whitewashing, 3 to 0 It ran the Athletics' winning streak to twelve. Homers by Foxx and Miller accounted for two of the winners' runs of Uhle.

The Washington Senators made only three hits off Pat Caraway, but turned them into a 2 to 0 victory over the Chicago White Sox

Spencer's homer accounted for one score and a two-base error by Reynolds made possible the other Sad Sam Jones held the Sox to six hits and was credited with his fourth victory.

Urban Pickering's two homers did not prevent the Boston Red Sox losing an 8 to 4 decision to the St. Louis Browns. It marked the Browns' eighth win of the year and was the fourth credited to Walter Stewart.

SEEK BRITISH CROWN

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, May 21 — One American woman is following the golfing trail to Great Britain blazed by many American men. Maureen Orcutt of Englewood, N. J., winner of the Metropolitan women's championship for the past four years, sailed last night in quest of the British women's championship, a title which no American born player has yet captured.

Fight for Featherweight Title

DAVIS CUP TEAMS MEET

By The Associated Press

MONTREAL, May 21 — Entirely outclassed so far as the "paper" ratings are concerned, but still hopeful of making up some of the difference on the courts, the Canadian Davis cup team set out today in an attempt to check the progress of the youngsters from the United States through the American zone play.

HIGH SCHOOL TEAMS COMPETE FOR TITLES

Week-End Contests To Settle Championships in Track, Golf, Tennis, Baseball.

BY JAMES L. BENICK
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, O., May 21—The state capital will become the mecca of Ohio interscholastic athletes this week-end when Buckeye championships will be settled in every branch of high school athletics—track, golf, tennis and baseball—drawing a crowd of more than 1,200 school boy participants.

The stars and near stars at Ohio State university will give way to their younger brothers Saturday as something like 14 tennis courts, five baseball dramonds and the varsity running track and pits will be turned over to the visiting teams The golf title will be settled Friday over the Wyandot course, which later this year will be the scene of the state amateur tournamen'

While all of the championships are important to their own particular following, it is expected that the track and field championships will draw the most attention.

Columbus Central's well balanced team will be seeking its fifth consecutive state title, while Toledo Scott, Cleveland West Tech, Salem and several others will be on hand with strong teams determined to break the winning streak of the Pirate crew.

In class B Dayton Oakwood is a strong favorite to repeat its triumph of last year, although strong competition may be expected from Oberlin, Plattsburg and several others.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

Bob Grove, Athletics—Ran team's winning streak to 12 straight with three hit shutout of Tigers, 3-0.

Buzz Arlett, Phillies—Gained major league home run lead, hitting his eighth and ninth in 11-7 triumph over Pirates.

John Berly, Giants—Shut out Reds 4-0, with five hits to run string of scoreless innings to 19.

Gabby Hartnett, Cubs—Clouted homer, double and two singles to lead in 7-5 victory over Braves.

Urban Pickering, Red Sox—Hit two homers against Browns

NEVER TOO OLD

Man, 83, Returns To Take College Post Graduate Course.

LONG BEACH, Calif.—Sixty-seven years ago Walter L. Church of this city was graduated from the University of Missouri. Church has announced he will return to the university to take a post graduate course. He is 83 years old.

He was a student at the University of Missouri during the war years of the Civil war. At that time federal troops were quartered in the university buildings and guarded the school.

Although he holds four degrees from three universities, Church said he planned to return to the Missouri university when the next school year starts. He will specialize in sociological and educational subjects. He received a bachelor of arts degree from the university in 1867 and a master of arts degree in 1870.

In 1866 he went to the University of Kentucky and received a degree of divinity degree. A few years later he received a bachelor of law degree from Washington university at St. Louis, Mo.

Church made and lost a fortune during the gold rush days in Alaska. He recouped his fortune, however, by practicing law.

BOYS IN RACKET

Take Advantage of Reward For False Fire Alarms.

WINDSOR, Ont.—Juvenile racketeering, encouraged by a $50 reward for information leading to convictions of anyone turning in false fire alarm, is presenting a perplexing problem to the Windsor city council.

Alderman Charles E. Hall pointed out that it was "easy for a gang of boys to take advantage of the reward system."

"One bold boy," the alderman said, "will pull the alarm and his friends will report him. In such instances, a juvenile arrested for turning in a false alarm will not be reprimanded by police."

"Then the gang of boys," the alderman concluded. "Split the reward among the victim and themselves."

Despite the contention of Hall it was decided to allow the reward to stand.

RAILS LEAD STOCK GAIN

Selling Flurries Have Little Effect on Most Prominent Issues.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, May 21—For the third successive day, the stock market was bolstered by an improved tone in the railroad issues today.

Selling flurries continued to sweep through the market, but had little effect upon the bulk of prominent issues. The bi-monthly settlement day in London brought forth no adverse developments, and uneasiness on that score appeared to have been ill founded.

Although the list encountered considerably scattered selling at times, particularly in the late morning it stiffened notably in the early afternoon. In the carrier issues, gains of a point or two appeared in New York Central, Pennsylvania, Missouri Pacific, Illinois Central, Union Pacific, Santa Fe and Atlantic Coast Line.

The improvement in the rails which first appeared Tuesday, after eight sessions of steady declines, is attributed both to completion of liquidation and to unofficial reports of progress in the plan of the carriers to request an upward revision of freight rates to restore their earning power and protect their credit. Executives of the eastern roads met at the bond club this afternoon, and while official comment was withheld, it was understood that the meetings was to perfect plans for requesting the higher rates.

Wall street is awaiting with some interest the semi-annual meeting of the American iron and steel institute tomorrow, and is confident that steel executives will have constructive comment to make on the current outlook despite the substantial seasonal contraction in steel output since late March.

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meat, Grain, Livestock

Steady prices with large supplies of all kinds of seasonable fruits and vegetables, was the situation on local markets today. City markets were reporting a slight advance in butter prices, but no change was being quoted on local markets.

New potatoes continue to provide the most sensational buy, prices were being quoted today from 40 to 60 cents a peck. No advance in the price is being looked for by dealers until the present over-supply is at least partly exhausted. Old potatoes are becoming a drug on the market and were selling slow today at from 45 to 55 cents.

Strawberries at two pint boxes for 25 cents, was an offering today. The supply is large and dealers report a fairly good demand. Pineapples are selling at 25 cents each and dealers say the demand is good.

RAINS FORCE GRAIN LOWER

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, May 21—Good rains in parts of the Canadian prairie provinces, tending to abate drouth, led to early downturns in wheat prices today. Indications pointed also to only slight damage from freezing temperatures in Kansas. Opening at 1-8 to 1 1-8 cents off, wheat later held near to the initial limits. Corn started unchanged to 3-8 up and subsequently sagged.

Emphasizing the bearish effects of Canadian drouth relief were advices that except in western North Dakota and eastern Montana most sections of domestic spring wheat territory now had sufficient moisture to carry crops for another two or three weeks. There were also reports of heavy Russian wheat shipments this week, 1,416,000 bushels. Rallies were promoted at times, however, by frost predictions for tonight in Nebraska and east including northern Indiana.

A Chicago crop authority was out with a statement that reports of winter wheat deterioration in parts of the southwest confirmed fears the open winter had caused premature aging of roots. Exhaustion of roots, though, he said, had been largely counteracted by the influence of ideal spring growth conditions. Some attention was also given to advices that cut worms were at work in Nebraska wheat fields, specifically near Meadow Grove and Norfolk. Corn and oats eased with wheat, despite cold weather over the corn belt.

Provisions scored upturns on account of a little commission house buying.

Golf Association Votes on Stymie Elimination

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, May 21—A vote is being taken by the Western golf association over one of the perplexing problems of the game, the stymie.

The vote was requested after several members insisted that many were in favor of abolishing it in match play as well as medal. Officials of the western body, however, said they didn't know whether the stymie would be eliminated even if voted against, as rules of the parent golf body, the United States Golf association, is in favor of it.

COLUMBUS IN BATTLE FOR TOP POST TODAY

Three Teams Have Chance at Leadership of American Association.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, May 21 Any one of three teams, St. Paul, Louisville or Columbus, has a chance of landing in first place or a tie, in the American Association race today.

Louisville yesterday dropped a 5 to 2 decision to Indianapolis in ten innings, going into a tie for the leadership with St. Paul. Columbus, which was idle, is in second place six points behind the leaders.

The Colonels today were at Columbus, and a victory for either, coupled with a defeat for St. Paul, would mean the top rung. The Saints would remain in the tie by winning, if the Colonels were victorious, or would have a decimal point margin if the Red Birds won.

There were no other games yesterday.

Men are much kinder by stopping to think.

Wayne Poultry Supplies Triumph Again!

Here is a letter received from a local farmer who is well satisfied with results obtained from Wayne Poultry Products:

Marion, Ohio,
Route No. 8,
May 6, 1931

Allied Mills, Inc.,
Fort Wayne, Ind.
Gentlemen:

We have 200 Leghorns hens on Wayne Egg Mash which gave us a 60 to 65% egg production all winter. They were raised on Wayne Starter and Wayne Grower last year.

We placed 710 Leghorn eggs from our own flock in the incubator this spring and hatched 612 chicks which shows excellent fertility and hatchability from Wayne Egg Mash, after rapid growth and heavy egg production.

We placed these chicks on Wayne All Mash Starter and at 2 weeks of age have lost 24 chicks. Chicks were not culled from incubator when placed in brooder. We have used other feeds but find Wayne gives best results.

Yours Truly,

BOY HURT IN FALL UNDER MACHINE

Ten-Year-Old Youth in Hospital After Mishap West of Marion.

John Bair, 10, is in fairly good condition at City hospital this morning, suffering a fractured hip, injuries to his head and severe body bruises received when a culti-packer ran over him Tuesday afternoon at the farm home west of Marion. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Bair.

The boy and his younger brother Edward were riding the implement which was drawn by a tractor driven by Charles Burrey. John's hand was braced on one of the levers, and when his younger brother playfully pushed his hand away, the boy lost his balance and fell under the machine. The softness of the ground from recent heavy rains, probably saved his life, members of the family believe.

It was feared that an X-ray at City hospital yesterday afternoon would show a fractured hip and skull. The attending physicians who examined him found that he had suffered a severe injury to his hip and that no bones in his head were broken. He was taken to City hospital yesterday afternoon in the W. C. Boyd invalid car. A physician attended him at his home until it became necessary to remove him to the hospital for X-ray examination and treatment.

Theater News And Reviews

Lowell Sherman, ace of suave comedians with the charming support of Irene Dunne makes "Bachelor Apartment" at the Marion tonight, an entertaining evening at the theater. The comedy is slightly risque but Sherman and the cast handle it so capably and smoothly that the picture is a compliment to the cast. Mae Murray has a made-to-order part of one of the frivolous flames of the hero.

The story revolves around Sherman who plays the part of a supercynical and immensely wealthy "lady-killer." He doesn't even trouble to go after his feminine prey.

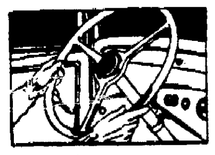
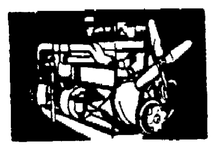
Things to note when you drive the new Pontiac

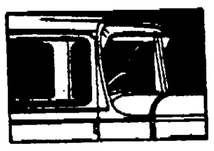


The moment you step into this car you will begin discovering pleasant things. First, how easily Pontiac handles — answering your lightest touch. The slender steel-and-rubber wheel invites a "finger grip"—and that's quite sufficient. You use little effort in braking or clutching.

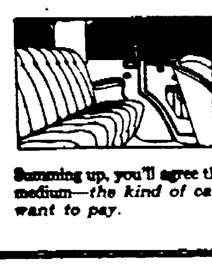


You'll remark the quick getaway . . . the rapid acceleration . . . the smoothly sustained speed. Pontiac has a 60-horsepower engine so ample in size that it need never be overworked. Hence it stays smooth.

You'll experience a new riding ease. Springs are deep; seat-cushions agreeably form-fitting, of course. But more important, Pontiac's chassis is cushioned with live rubber at more than 40 points.



You'll sense extra security in Pontiac. The famous Fisher Body wood-and-steel construction is snugly insulated against outside cold, heat, and dampness. Cowl and windshield pillars are built in one piece — a leak-proof, rattle-free construction. The first touch on the big brakes tells the story of unusual stopping power.



You'll find the Pontiac interior tastefully fitted, appointed, finished. Rich long-wearing mohair or whipcord in the closed cars—select leathers in the open models. In all, an atmosphere of fine craftsmanship pleasing to your pride.

Summing up, you'll agree that Pontiac Six is indeed a happy medium—the kind of car you want at the price you want to pay.

The Stars Say—

For Friday, May 22

A RATHER intriguing state of affairs may be forecast from the conflicting force of the planets governing the day. While employment promises favors, preferment or recognition from superiors, and certain new projects are under encouraging sway, yet there are unsettling, restive and doubtful complications in connection with papers, writings or agreements, with hint of fraud, misrepresentation or want of veracity. Personal affairs also perplex.

Those whose birthday it is may encounter a year of perplexing or intriguing circumstances. Employment and new undertakings are under hopeful sway, but there are menaces of complications or misunderstandings with writings, papers, or contracts. Also purely personal relations may be confusing or likewise suffer through unguarded writings, or tactless speech. A child born on this day may be clever and socially gifted, but its predisposition to unguarded and tactless speech or writings may beget trouble. It should have fair success in employment and with superiors.

Mr. Walter C. Scott, Chief of Park Police, 1908 Eastside Avenue, Nashville, says: "I suffered from rheumatism for a year. This finally became so bad I could scarcely bend my body. scriber. The army of 300 workers proposes to stay on the job until every man and woman in Marion is wearing a red feather in his or her hat. During the week of May 25, the feather will designate citizens who wish Marions' program of welfare and character building activities to move forward.

Pointing out that citizens of Marion realize that the goal of $73,397 will be a difficult one to attain, Wilbur Symes, general chairman of the drive, today appealed for the support of everyone in the drive.

"This is a year when the entire budget must be raised," he said. "A survey," he continued, "has revealed that the 1931 goal is one of the most conservative in cities the size of Marion in the country. Anything short of the goal will be alike a reflection upon civic spirit and community conscience.

"Capital and industry are joining hands everywhere in a determined effort to raise funds adequate for welfare and relief programs in 1931. I feel confident that Marion will join the ranks of cities in her class and raise her complete budget for the year."

In explaining the need for strenuous effort, W. S. Edmund, director of the campaign, pointed out that "to raise the budget this year will mean increased giving all along the line. Every committee must carry its share of the increase, or there will be a gap in Marion's welfare and character building program impossible to bridge.

SATURDAY SET ASIDE AS POPPY DAY HERE

Mayor Issues Proclamation; Legion Auxiliary Plans Annual Street Sale.

Mayor L. Don Jones today issued a proclamation declaring Saturday as Poppy day and urging the residents of the city to contribute their bit to the cause. The sale, this year as formerly, is in charge of members of the Legion auxiliary with Mrs. Russell Snair as chairman. The mayor's proclamation follows:

"Once again the season comes when the people of Marion will be given an opportunity to remember the sacrifice of those who offered their services to our country without reservations.

"Of many thousands who went across, the supreme sacrifice was not demanded, but an offering almost as great was made, in that they returned crippled and disabled for life. They cannot enter the channels of trade or business and compete with their brother who is not so afflicted. So, once again we are asked to buy a poppy made by these crippled heroes, that they and their loved ones may taste of some of the joys of their more favored friends."

provision for which is made in the tangible property sections of the classification bill.

The realtors are demanding something more than the tax on intangibles to bring further relief to real estate.

Today's sessions marked the end of this week's hearings. The senate is expected to bring up the special committee's recommended program for action next week so that it might speed up the process of formulating a new taxation system.

A new possible source of revenue had been added today to the already lengthy list of proposals which includes increased automobile taxes and levies on tobacco, general sales, soft drinks and amusements.

Store Tax Proposed

The new source is provided in the bill introduced by Representative Fred Myers, Republican, of Toledo, aimed at chain stores. It is modeled after the Indiana chain store tax which the supreme court held constitutional.

Every storekeeper would be taxed at the rate of $3 for individual stores but the rate increases to include: two to five stores, $5 each; five to ten stores, $25 each; ten to 20 stores, $35 each, and over 20 stores, $50 each. Myers estimated the tax would yield $4,000,000 a year.

The tax hearings yesterday afternoon and last night were taken up by the farm bureau and a number of individual speakers. L. B. Palmer, president of the farm bureau, C. A. Dyer, legislative agent and John B. Wilson, Wood county farmer, presented their views.

They asked both for an income tax and a tax on intangibles and Dyer protested that the recommended rates on intangibles are too low. They also asked for the imposition of tobacco, luxury and sales taxes.

Attorney H. C. Ballard, also representing the farm bureau proposed a mortgage recording tax which he said would yield $5,000,000 a year.

RUSSIANS OPPOSE U. S. WHEAT PLAN

Against Acreage Reduction, Formal Statement at World Conference Reveals.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, May 21—In a formal announcement issued this morning, Soviet Russia's delegates to the world wheat conference said they opposed a plan suggested by Samuel R. McKelvie, head of the American delegation, for reduction in wheat acreage, because industrial and social conditions in Russia made increased wheat production imperative.

"It seems advisable to us to allow each country to decide for itself whether to curtail production of agricultural commodities, and wheat in particular," the announcement said.

The statement said it was the Russian opinion, drawn from statements of others before the conference, that the principal solution for regulation of wheat export is fixing definite export quotas."

The announcement dealt with the Russian views regarding quotas and said Russia's pre-war status must be considered in fixing any quota scheme.

The statement was signed by Isidore Lubimoff, head of the Russian delegation.

In a preface Lubimoff outlined the actual position of soviet wheat production. Last year the crop totalled 29,500,000 tons. Allowing for consumption, the surplus was 6,100,000 tons.

Lubimoff said the Russians disagree with other delegates regarding the agricultural crisis, contending that the crisis is a direct result of "contradictions within the capitalistic system."

TESTIMONY OPENS IN PEN FIRE TRIAL

Death Penalty Sought for Convict Accused as Conspirator in Tragedy.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., May 21 — With a jury seated and opening statements out of the way, the state called its witnesses today in the first degree murder trial of Clinton Grate, 31, convict, one of two alleged conspirators in the Ohio penitentiary fire in which 320 prisoners perished a year ago.

The witnesses included Dr. J. A Murphy, former coroner; D. J. Bonzo, record clerk at the prison, and Mrs. Ruth Brashear, widow of Howard T. Brashear, convict for whose death Grate is specifically charged. All were summoned to tell of the identification of the body.

Opening statements were started yesterday after acceptance of the jury of 11 men and two women, one of the latter an alternate. Later the jurors were taken to the penitentiary to inspect the scene of the disaster.

Seeking a penalty of death in the electric chair for the prisoner-defendant, Donald J. Hoskins, Franklin county prosecutor, pictured Grate and Hugh Gibbons, another convict, as murderers who started the fire in a plot to escape. John A. Connor, opening for the defense, declared the conflagration resulted from defective wiring, "criminal negligence" and lack of leadership.

YOUTH BOUND OVER ON BURGLARY CHARGE

Richard Robinson, Alias Roberts, Held to Grand Jury Today.

Upon his plea of guilty to a charge of burglary, Richard Robinson, alias Richard Roberts, 20, captured by the police early Tuesday morning in the act of allegedly burglarizing the L. H Cheney grocery on Columbia street, was bound over to the grand jury by Municipal Judge W. R. Martin this morning and his bond was fixed at $2,000.

Information obtained by the police following the capture of Robinson, led to the arrest of four other young men. It was first believed they comprised a group which has taken part in the series of robberies during the last several weeks. No definite information could be obtained however, and the men were released.

Patrolmen caught Robinson crouching behind a counter at the Cheney store with a revolver lying on the floor and the drawer of the cash register standing open. He first gave the name of Rirchard Roberts but later admitted his name was Richard Robinson.

PUSH EFFORT TO CUT GOVERNMENT COST

Will Ask Congress To Approve Abandonment of 53 Military Posts.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 21—Congress will be asked to approve complete or partial abandonment of some of the 53 military posts the war department plans to dispose of in the administration's effort to prevent further inroads on the taxpayer's pocketbook.

And before December, economy plans will be laid for other governmental departments. At his Rapidan, Virginia fishing camp this week-end President Hoover will consider the post office department with its prospective $140,000,000 deficit.

In the campaign, the President and cabinet members hope to save from $125,000,000 to $150,000,000. Mr. Hoover has contended expenditures must be reduced to prevent tax increases in the face of decreasing receipts and an expected deficit of $700,000,000 or more this year.

INVENTOR FATALLY BURNED IN EXPLOSION

Charles E. Vawter Dies in Philadelphia; 200 Inventions Credited to Him.

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 21—Charles E. Vawter, widely known inventor, was fatally burned by an explosion in his laboratory here, died early today. His body was sent to Blacksburg, Va., seat of Virginia Polytechnic institute, where for many years he taught physics.

Mr. Vawter's death followed by 24 hours a blast which occurred in his workshop at his home in the Germantown section.

He was lubricating a motor while testing a new high tension ignition device designed for airplanes, when a spark ignited the oil, causing an explosion. The burning liquid fired his clothing.

Among the more than 200 radio and electrical devices he is credited with having invented or perfected are electric testing instruments, circuit-breakers, and an attachment which makes it possible to use the house wiring system as a radio antennae.

Sanitary Officer Says Cistern Cleaner Not State Inspection.

C. M. Tobin, city sanitary officer, today warned Marionites to ignore threats of a wall and cistern cleaner, who represents himself to be an officer of the state health department. The man threatens to seal cisterns and wells of persons who refuse to have them cleaned, nd declares that the state department of health requires the cleaning he recommends.

A number of complaints that the scheme has been operated here this week have been received by Mr Tobin.

Daily Proverb—"Improve rather by other men's errors than find fault with them."

Three bandits held up a truck driver in Chicago and made off with his truck and its load of electric clocks valued at $5,000. Chicago's underworld may be expected to operate on time hereafter.

As a sequel to a pugilistic encounter over a woman, two Hungarian barons fought a duel with swords and one of them suffered a badly-slashed head. But then, there is always the exception to prove the rule.

Federal authorities have stated that Al. Capone's income in 1928 was $1,641,979. Who ever imagined that the Hon. Mr. Capone would be content with "chicken feed" like that? Still, it's always possible that his real quest is notoriety.

For driving while intoxicated, a Chicago woman was sentenced to scrub the floor of the city hall court. Doesn't this come within the category of cruel and unusual punishments?

Of seven expert counterfeiters arrested in New York this week, three were women. The girls seem to be crowding the men out in just about all lines of employment, these days, be the employment within the law or out.

As a mark of protest, motor traffic in Warsaw, Poland, was suspended when the new vehicle tax of $2.25 a year on each hundredweight of the vehicle went into effect there. It may be necessary over here to emulate the Poles if vehicle taxes keep on climbing.

Fifty dry agents swooped down upon Los Vegas, Nevada, the gateway to Boulder dam, one day this week and made half a hundred arrests in its speakeasies and roadhouses, which recalls the announcement that business enterprises at Boulder dam are to be limited to two of a kind. Is this rule to apply to speakeasies? If it does and the government turns the trick of enforcing it, the method should be tipped off to every city and village in the land.

Telephone electricians in Chicago have voted to refuse an increase of twenty-five cents a day to which they are entitled under a five-year contract, stating that, in view of the present depression, they feel that they shouldn't take it. That's commendable. In times such as the present, the wage proposition should work both ways.

Two thousand, four hundred rubber plant workers go on strike in Mishawaka, Indiana. Employment conditions in the Hoosier state must be showing improvement.

During the course of a divorce proceeding in Baltimore it developed that the young bride, following the wedding, had told the young groom that she had married him only to show people how easily she could get him and to prove to some one else that she "could get married too." That young man should never get over congratulating himself that his bride's pique didn't prompt her to live with him.

Better, If Not Bigger.

The powers of Europe, which have throttled Germany's strength on the sea as well as on land and in the air by reducing her armament equipment to low proportions, have something to think about in the so-called "pocket battleship" launched at Kiel this week. But not so much as some commentators would indicate, it should be warned.

The new ship's chief importance is an engineering feat. Though designed to be too powerful for ships that can catch her and too fast for ships powerful enough to sink her, the new ship does not mean that Germany has circumvented the restrictions laid on her by the peace treaty—by no means. The wisdom of building the Deutschland, and the wisdom of building other ships like her, is questioned, even in Germany.

The essential consideration is that other great nations always can go Germany at least one better, because they have the upper hand. The ultimate effect of Germany's smaller battleship, in fact, may be to stimulate advanced designing to the extent that Germany's power will be decreased even more than it is now. Since the war, Germany has not ranked as a naval power. The new battleship, however, forces other naval powers to admit she has become one. Taking advantage of Germany's disadvantages under the peace treaty, they may attempt to place themselves in a more advantageous position than ever.

The launching of the new ship was an ill omen for disarmament, in a manner of speaking, but it was far from an actual threat to naval security. For present purposes, therefore, it is sufficient to say that Germany has built a better warship of its size than her neighbors, and let it go at that. Consequences of the improvement will remain vague for many years to come.

Establishing a Precedent.

The final settlement of the case of the Ohio tax commission against the East Ohio Gas company by the supreme court of the United States, though attended with slight public interest, is satisfactory. The case was of little direct interest to consumers, but of deep interest to the tax commission. The decision enables he state to collect approximately $1,600,000 in taxes on gas used during 1927, 1928 and 1929.

Attorney General Bettman's case was built on the contention that gas produced outside the state becomes subject to Ohio excise taxation when it crosses the state border, since it is consumed in Ohio cities, mixed with Ohio gas and stored in tanks on Ohio property. He declared that should the supreme court hold that such a product entered a state in interstate commerce and continued that status until distributed to the ultimate consumer, state control over such companies as the East Ohio Gas company would be paralyzed, and the states would lose one-half their sovereignty.

Counsel for the Gas company argued that gas produced in West Virginia and Pennsylvania was brought into Ohio in uninterrupted interstate flow, and that the interstate commerce phase of the transaction did not end until the gas reached the ultimate consumer. Ohio is forbidden, of course, to burden interstate commerce with a tax.

Excise taxation, or internal revenue, is a mainstay of state support, which has been guarded jealousy by governments for hundreds of years.

The supreme court's decision affecting the East Ohio Gas company is an important legal precedent, insuring that an important source of revenue can not be closed to state taxation.

Washington announces that the government has limited stores at Boulder dam to two of a kind. Now look for outbursts about a policy in restraint of trade.

Passing of a Flurry.

Whatever may have been the real reason for starting the widely-discussed Edison boy tests, and whatever may have been the benefits from the tests, they will bother critical commentators no longer. It has been announced that they will be discontinued because their cost is prohibitive.

Nothing is lost. Bright lads who hope to become successors to Thomas A. Edison will stand as good a chance as ever—perhaps better. The exclusive intellectual hierarchy the tests were intended to establish has toppled by reason of its own topheaviness, as much as by reason of its expense to the Edison interests.

Two embryo geniuses were uncovered by the tests, and staked to first-class educations. But their selection, in effect, added nothing or detracted nothing from the quality of a million other young minds that may be acclaimed among the most brilliant of their generation in time to come. The Edison tests did not create ability; they selected ability already in existence. Their value as a stimulus, furthermore, was nil, because they necessarily were directed at the excessively brilliant—a relatively small group. It is doubtful if Thomas A. Edison, himself, would have been able to qualify had he taken a similar test during the period of his adolescence.

Notwithstanding all other considerations, the great public, which tried in vain to answer the questions, will regret the passing of the annual competition. It is suggested that to fill in the gap the federal government might devote space alloted to less interesting information in its various informative publication to a list of trick questions, open to all and winner take nothing but the satisfaction of realizing his own distinction. That's about all the Edison tests did anyway.

Unemployed workingmen drawing insurance pay in Germany were reduced during April from the winter peak of 2,589,000 to 1,888,000. The decrease is held due to seasonal causes, but even at that it spells some relief. There's the old one about a half loaf being better than none at all.

A Real Hero.

The incident which resulted in the death in France of Brigadier General Robert H. Dunlap, of the United States marine corps, and Denis Briant, a French farmer, has all the splendid color of a well-conceived scene from a tragedy.

General Dunlap and his wife had formed a close friendship with Briant and his wife, who made their home in one of the picturesque cave-dwellings that have survived the troglodyte age. The two friends—American general and French farmer—were talking when they heard the screams of Mme. Briant, who was working in a barn built over a nearby cave. An avalanche was covering the barn.

Without a thought for their own safety, the two men rushed to the aid of the French woman, and immediately were lost in the mass of earth and stones. Their bodies have been recovered, Mme. Briant, seriously injured, was extricated from a tiny refuge in the angle of a wall.

It was an unusual way for a fighting man to die, but no one can say that General Dunlap is any less a hero than he might have been had his life been stopped by an enemy bullet. Heroism is an absolute quality, not dependent on circumstances.

The Pacific Northwest Newspaper Advertisers Executives association is tipping off newspapers in its area of influence that if their readers are such as to respond only to the lurid and sensational it's up to them to get new circulation managers as such readers are no good to advertising patrons. Give advertisers generally time, and all of them are liable to arrive at the same conclusion.

Professor K. Wiesinger, of the Zurich Polytechnique, has revealed to railroad engineers what is believed to be a practical plan for running a propeller-driven train of aluminum coaches at a speed of 223 miles an hour. The twenty-ton weight of the present Swiss coaches would be reduced by the use of aluminum to three tons and the wheels would incline thirty degrees to stabilize the train and prevent derailment. Let's not be incredulous about the possibility of operating such a train. Far more remarkable innovations are today in common use!

"INTERNAL TROUBLE HIM GITTEE VELLY MUCH CHRONIC."

UNWISE CRUSADING.

The Crusaders make up a decidedly significant organization and are capable of doing some good work toward solution of the prohibition question if they keep their feet on the ground. But their spokesmen should see to it that they talk sense and abstain from indulging in wild, derogatory flings that cheapen their standing and accomplish nothing except to stir up antagonism and resentment. Because some of the Anti-Saloon league orators indulge in such activities, it does not follow that there is a sensible reason why the Crusaders should do so.

The Crusader statement sent out from Washington that "prohibition thrives on ignorance," and the elaborating assertion that "typically dry states show a discouragingly high per cent. of illiteracy, whereas typically wet states are remarkably free from this indication of low mentality," are nonsense, and cheap stuff. They are highly illustrative of the great gulf which may exist between the person with a glib tongue and the person with a mature intellectual equipment.

Illiteracy is not per se any indication of "low mentality." If it were, then most of our ancestors would have been a hopeless lot and we would be like them. Certainly booze fighting is no proof of either intelligence or culture. If it were, bums, bar flies and sots would compose the intellectual elite of the nation.

The dryness of Virginia, North Carolina, Georgia and other states which the crusaders hold up as horrible examples of "ignorance and prohibition," and the wetness of New York and Illinois have nothing to do with the amount of schooling in these contrasted commonwealths, but depend upon other factors that are prefectly well known and are to the disadvantage of the wet states.

Certainly there is no evidence of low mentality in an ability and determination to abstain from indulgence in a habit that does nobody any good and frequently is ruinous; but inability to refrain from the indulgence may be evidence of it.

The arguments for modification of the present dry laws in the direction of liberality which are legitimate, are based on considerations quite distinct from any idea that it is a proof of intellectual acuteness and progressiveness to consume alcoholic beverages.

They are founded on the painful fact that the American people have not reached a stage of mental and moral development or self-control which makes an experiment in compulsory abstention from drink possible without the appearance of evils much worse than those placed under attack.—Detroit Free Press.

RUSSIA'S LATEST BLUFF.

Before the League of Nations council at Geneva yesterday M. Litvinoff, Russia's commissar for foreign affairs, put forward the soviet's latest trade bluff. He submitted a plan for "economic non-aggression," whereby contracting powers would jointly and severally agree to "co-exist," alongside one another without attempting in any way whatsoever to interfere with normal and natural commercial intercourse. The Communist proposal would specifically debar "discrimination" against the trade of any country. This, of course, is the soviet's way of obliterating the embargoes which so many countries are now invoking against commerce with Russia. Our next-door neighbor, Canada, has recently resorted to such measures.

The Litvinoff proposition on its face breathes innocence, good will and brotherly love. It exudes, too, the spirit of fraternal tolerance, for it categorically espouses the plan of "economic non-aggression," no matter what political or economic system may be in vogue in this or that country. The outside world, thus, is not to distruct the soviet system just because 160,000,000 Russians are harnessed to it like so many serfs chained to a juggernaut.

But that, after all, is their business. What is the business of the rest of us, in connection with this latest flower of Communist impudence, is to contemplate how much value could be attached to any soviet pledge of economic non-aggression. Presumably if Russia exacted from other countries an agreement not to discriminate against her forced-labor produce, they would demand from her a covenant not to deluge their markets with dumped goods.

If and when the time comes for the flies to accept an invitation to walk into the Russian spider's parlor, they will need only to inquire into the extent to which Moscow has kept other international promises. Would the soviet exhibit a tithe more respect for a non-economic aggression contract than it has for non-propaganda pledges? Experience is the only safe guide in such matters. Europe's experience with Communist undertakings has not been of the confidence-inspiring kind. — Washington Star, May 19.

Don't Overexcite Baby.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Have you ever watched a baby play in his crib? With a most serious expression on his face he may lie for minutes playing with his fingers or toes. Chuckling and laughing to himself, he seems to be having a grand time.

A few minutes of gentle play during the day is good for the baby. Unfortunately, many parents fail to realize that babies need a great deal of rest and quiet. Much of the play made possible for infants is too exciting.

Too often, the family resorts to all manner of things to make the baby laugh. Tickling, pinching or tossing the baby about are common practices that should be discouraged.

Not only do these things excite the baby, but they teach the infant to demand attention. Such practices should not be encouraged.

As the baby grows older, a definite time should be set aside for his playing. The morning is the best time. Do not have your child play in the late afternoon. He should be kept quiet at this time, so that his night's rest will not be disturbed.

Older children should be taught to play for half an hour to an hour without interruption. As the child grows older, it is best for him to learn how to entertain himself. He must learn to do things for himself. Such training is best accomplished in infancy and early childhood.

A word about toys: Since most babies want to put everything into their mouths, care must be taken to discourage this habit. Toys must never be so small that they might easily be swallowed. It is best never to have any loose parts on a toy that might come off. All toys should be washable and without sharp points.

As the baby grows older, educational toys should be supplied to him. It is not necessary to buy expensive games. Careful selection of toys that will create interest for the child can usually be purchased at a slight expenditure.

All these matters have their influence upon the development and habits of the youngsters. They are not too trival to demand your attention.

Helmholtz, "Explorer."

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

One of the greater glories of German science is the famous savant Herman Ludwig Ferdinand von Helmholtz. He is famous as the "explorer of the eye and the ear." To him is rightfully attributed the discovery of nerve cells in the ganglia. He applied his comprehensive knowledge of the laws of mechanics to the study of biological organisms. His greatest contributions were of different qualities, the one direct, the other indirect. The one was the final establishment, upon a thorough and stable foundation, of the principle of the conservation of energy.

Helmholtz was born at Potsdam, Germany, on August 31, 1821. It is worthy of record that his mother was a descendant of William Penn. Although his father, who was a schoolmaster, wanted him to study languages and literature, he himself was inclined to studies with the microscope. He early busied himself with elementary investigations in optics, and even used some of his father's spectacle-glasses and a small lens for making an optical instrument. Thwarted in his ambition to become a physicist, at the outset of his career through his father's lack of means, he had to content himself for a time with the career of a surgeon in the Prussian army.

With a small sum of money he had saved, he bought a microscope. At the age of twenty-one, with this microscope, he made the noteworthy discovery of nerve cells in the ganglia. Fortunately, the famous scientist, Humboldt, recognized the genius of Helmholtz and relieved him from his military duties to enable him to devote his time to scientific research.

Early in life Helmholtz made a great contribution to science by working out, with others, the fundamental physical law of the conservation of energy. The modern conception of energy is actually embodied in Newton's Principia, but it was not until 1829 that it was clearly formulated by Poncelet, Rumford, Joule, Mayer and J. J. Thompson all played some part in establishing the universal law of the conservation of energy; but it was Helmholtz who gave this principle its soundest formulation and final form. Of the principle, Helmholtz has said, with an air of authority and finality: "The last decades of scientific development have led us to the recognition of a new universal law of all natural phenomena, which, from its extraordinarily extended range, and from the connection which it constitutes between natural phenomena of all kinds, even of the remotest times and the most distant places, is especially fitted to give us an idea of what I have described as the character of the natural sciences * * * This law is the law of the conservation of force. * * * It is not absolutely new, for individual domains of natural phenomena it was enunciated by Newton and Daniel Bernoulli, and Rumford and Humphrey Davy have recognized distinct features of its presence in the laws of heat. The possibility that it was of universal application was first stated by Mayer in 1842, while almost simultaneously with, and independently of him, Joule made a series of important and difficult experiments on the relation of heat to mechanical force, which supplied the chief points in which the comparison of the new theory with experience was still wanting. The law in question asserts, that the quantity of force which can be brought into action in the whole of nature is unchangeable, and can neither be increased nor diminished."

The second epochal contribution of Helmholtz, aside from his classic work on the eye and ear, was essentially indirect. For it was the work of his pupil, Henrich Hertz, who always said that the inspiration for his great discovery came from his master, Helmholtz. This discovery was that of electro-magnetic waves, which Hertz realized in his experiments. The work of Clerk Maxwell, Faraday and Hertz made possible wireless telegraphy and telephony.—Copyright, 1931, International Feature Syndicate, Inc.

Arnold Henry Dohrman.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH.

Of the many persons to whom for service of various kinds during the Revolutionary war, grants of land in Ohio were given, Arnold Henry Dohrman, who was given a township of 20,040 acres lying partly in what is now Tuscarawas county and party in Harrison, is the only one who was not living in America at that time, and was not a citizen of any of the colonies, but of the Netherlands, and was engaged as a merchant at Lisbon, Portugal.

As represented to congress later, he was a lover of America and sympathized deeply in her struggle. He gave much money to the relief of American prisoners of war who came to Lisbon, the result being that his capital was impaired and he was in bad repute on the continent where sympathy was not with the colonists.

After the war was over, he presented a claim to congress for $26,084.24 but as he could furnish vouchers as evidence for but $5,806.80 that much only was paid him; in addition they allowed him salary as a foreign agent of the colonists for the time he was engaged in this assistance, according to his claim, though what he did does not seem to have come to the attention of the continental authorities until later.

Congress also voted him a township to be located west of the mountains, and this was picked for him by an agent probably without seeing it, for it was averred that it was the poorest land in the three ranges from which he was privileged to choose. Dohrman had now located in New York, but failed to establish himself in business there and was obliged to mortgage his Ohio county for money to live on. To try to realize on his Ohio land he came to Ohio and for his later years lived in Steubenville. Twice his home was lost by fire. Friends arranged for him to go to Washington to make representations as to his unfortunate condition, but while preparing to take this trip he fell ill and died in 1813. On March 3, 1817, congress voted a pension of $300 a year to Rachel Dohrman, his widow, and $100 for each of their minor children.

FIRST CIRCUS HERE FRIDAY

The first circus of the season will arrive in Marion tomorrow morning when the Robbins Brothers four-ring show pulls in from Sandusky over the Pennsylvania railroad.

The circus carries 1,000 people, 300 wild animals and 200 trained horses. Many of the star performers are from foreign lands.

The Robbins Brothers show is the only railway circus in America that gives a street parade. The parade floats were part of the Ringling Bros. circus before purchased by Robbins. The street march is a presentation of the pagantry of the days when "Knighthood Was in Flower." The theme of the parade is that of "the march of the nations of the world." Natives occupy positions upon tableaux wagons in their national costumes. The parade includes Indians, cowboys, cowgirls, horses, three herds of elephants, camels and all of the cages containing the wild beasts of the jungle are open.

Two shows are to be given—one—the matinee at 2 p. m. and the evening performance at 8 p. m.

The parade will start promptly at noon.—Adv.

She stood beside her father in the ranks of thieves, thieves who robbed the dead.

She saw Jon fling out of the room. Damon sat very still, looking down at her hands.

"I must go."

She must have said it; but her voice sounded very far away as though it belonged to someone else. It must be her body that was walking with such stiff uncertain steps out of the room. It must be she who had made her way to the highroad and began to walk, not knowing where she was going.

A man in an old car saw her moving uncertainly from one side of the road to the other. He stopped and asked her if he could drive her into town. She got in without even answering. He turned to speak to her but he saw then that tears were running down her cheeks. So they drove to the city where she told him where she lived. He left her at her door. She had even forgotten to thank him.

If only she could hide somewhere, she thought, so that never again would she have to meet them face to face. She could not unlock the door, her fingers fumbled so with the key.

She began to cry weakly, and then someone had opened the door from the inside and Fergus stood there looking at her.

"What's the matter?"

"Nothing! Nothing! What could be the matter?" she cried wildly.

But no, this was not the way. She must be quiet and calm. Fergus took one of her hands. It was ice-cold. He led her into his office and shut the door.

He brought her something to drink. She ...ed to drink it. But she could not swallow. She put the glass down on his desk.

"It would be better if you would tell me, Nora. I may be able to help you."

"Fergus, don't make me," she said piteously. "I'm so horribly afraid."

He was not looking at her. That was better. He sat in his chair tilted back, looking away from her to the window.

"If I could go away somewhere—"

"You can face it, Nora. You're brave," he said confidently.

"If I tell you, Fergus, you won't blame him—oh, Fergus, Julian's like a child who takes anything he wants and uses it."

Little by little she told him the story. She sat waiting for his judgment. But none came. His dark head was bent. The telephone rang. It continued to ring and ring. After a while it stopped ringing. They still sat there.

"I'll go to see him tonight," Fergus said. "I'll tell him all you have told me. The show must be closed. I'll ask him to promise that the paintings shall be turned over to Jon Thayer. He can do as he chooses about it. I'm afraid your father will have to face it."

"He's never faced anything in his life. He's always run away."

"You are good, Fergus. Fran used to tell me—but I never knew until now—you don't think Julian is wicked? He isn't—he's only—"

"Pitiful," Fergus said.

For the first time tears rolled over her cheeks.

"I'm sorry, Nora."

"Don't be sorry for me. I can bear it. It doesn't matter to me. It's for him. He isn't selfish, Fergus. He wanted all this for us. For Fran and Aunt Em, for me. He was going to make us happy. He had such plans—"

"You're going up to bed now, Nora. I'll give you something to make you sleep. You don't want to see your aunt now?"

She only shook her head. He left her at the head of the stairs with two white tablets. She caught his hand and laid it against her cheek.

"I hope you'll be happy—you and Fran," she choked.

Then without knowing what she did she tore off her clothes and got into bed. After a night of misery she got up and went downstairs. She could barely meet Hallie's eyes, but Hallie began to talk rapidly and nervously about a story she was writing. The children were subdued. A cloud seemed to hang over the house. Nora went to the office as usual; but Mr. Dusenbury after one look at her face did not say anything about her absence of the day before. Everyone was solicitous and remarked that she looked ill.

"I see your father has an exhibition of paintings in the city," Miss Brown, the bookkeeper said but Nora turned away so abruptly the kind little woman was hurt.

Somehow she got through the day and when she came down the wooden steps that evening she saw Fergus himself standing waiting for her. Yes, he had seen her father. The show would be closed. But Fergus seemed to have little else to say.

"What is he going to do?" Nora gasped.

"He's going away. He says he'll let you know later."

"Oh, Fergus! Fergus!"

They were in the car now. Fergus brought out something and gave it to her. It was a check. Nora sat looking helplessly down at this money that would mean salvation for all of them.

"Fergus, would you take me out to—Jon's now—I'd like to give them this money. Then I shall see what they want me to do."

"Nora, you're a little brick!" he said.

Her eyes looked at him with despair.

"If you only knew—I'm not. I'd rather die than face Damon. She seems to hate me. And they believe that I—that I knew it all the time. You know I wouldn't do a thing like that, don't you?"

He caught her hand and gripped it hard.

"It's better to get it over at once. I'll drive you out there now, if you say."

Nora saw they were going along the river road. She asked him, "Do Hallie and Aunt Em know?"

"I told them."

"I suppose they think I . . . knew."

"They believe utterly in you."

Nora's eyes burned; she put her cold hands against her cheeks.

"I must be brave," she told herself over and over.

"Fergus, do you mind leaving me? I want to do it alone."

How quiet and peaceful the house was. The green tendrils of the wistaria vine curled out long fingers and the sun lay on the deep waves of the lawn, from which the lovely old home rose.

She climbed the stone steps and forced herself to ring the bell at last. She waited. Where were they all? At last she heard footsteps and one of the maids stood there smiling.

It was very strange that she did not ask her to come in.

"Mr. Jon?"

The maid shook her head.

"Miss Damon?"

There was another shake.

"But I must see them! Where are they?"

"Mr. Jon and Miss Damon are not here. They were married this morning"

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

—BY JUDD M. LEWIS—

IT wasn't so bright and bammy today as it might of been. It was cloudy and when I had let Jubilee down by the rope in his teeth and had put on my short britches and went down and out to the barn with the milk pail it was misting a little, and when the bunch came in some was hoping it would rain, and the ones like me that have got cows to take out were wishing it wouldn't because we would have to go splashing through the rain and the mud to get the cows out, and the days are so warm now that the teacher won't send a fella home even if he comes to school soaking. She said that when she was a nurse in France brave men had to fight and die in the rain and she guest rain wouldn't hurt a little boy unreparably. I guess it wouldn't either.

When Feeble came she had a Chinese umberella she had hooked on her mother, so if it should rain. I stopped milking long enough to look at it with the others. I told her all her head was for was to keep her ears apart if she thought a paper umberella would keep of rain. But she said, "It is waxed, Smarty." So I didn't say any more. She took it in the house when I went in to feed my face and opened it up to show it to my mother. My ant said it was bad luck to open an umbrella in the house, and I told Feeble the first thing she knowed she would have an ant or something come to live with her, and my father told me to let my vitals stop my mouth. I guess I nearly got licked.

The umberella was all colors and my mother said it was surprising to think that it would keep out rain. Feeble said there was a kind that would and a kind that wouldn't, and her mother had one of that kind too. We were away out by the culvert on the way to the pasture when it began to rain, and it rained right. But Feeble was right. The umbrella kept the rain off fine, and we all tried to get under it, and in about five minutes the umbrella dizzolved all over us, and when we got out from under it and gave Feeble a look she looked like a Easter egg. So did the rest of us. Younise said she bet her dress was ruined. Feeble said she guest she got the wrong umberella. The girls went back and we went to the pasture and went in the creek clothes and all. The girls were at school when we got there, and Feeble said to me, "I guest right when I guest I got the wrong umberella. You ought to see what my mother done to me." I am glad I didn't if her mother done it the same place my father does. The sun came out and the teacher made us go out in the sun to get our lessons. We didn't get them very good. But Jubilee came in and kept us company.

"Heart of a Wife"

—BY ADELE GARRISON—

The Injured Chinese Again Appears

INVOLUNTARILY I drew back from the shattered window as the three drops of blood for I recognized them as such after the first startled instant fell upon the grass below. Then as instinctively I glanced upward.

The tree of course! How any man could have climbed that smooth pole was beyond me, but the Chinese evidently had accomplished it, and now, not knowing of the dripping blood or not being able to stanch the wounds the shattered glass had given him, he was crouching among those tree branches waiting for what?

My throat went dry as I thought about it. The Chinese had not climbed the tree in order to make his escape. A few strides from the window while I had been making my way to the kitchen, would have taken him to the edge of the friendly cornfield which would have hidden him completely and enabled him to get into the ticket. No, he must be so bent upon getting the rice paper letter which he had silently commanded me to give him that he counted no peril or hardship too great to risk for it.

A Thrill of Hope

Was he watching me? Had he seen that upward glance of mine? If he had he knew that he was discovered. What would he do? He was a desperate man, I knew that, or he would not have gone up into the tree.

I thought of Mr. Tiger working busily at the other side of the house, secure in the belief that my experience with the spying Chinese had been but a dream. I thought also of Mrs. Tiger coming across the fields. What might not this desperado do to either of them if he figured that by getting them out of the way he could have me defenseless.

The Return of Courage

Could I get Mr. Tiger into the house before the Chinese could drop to the ground and run around to the garden where he was working? I even had wild, fantastic thoughts of grabbing Mr. Tiger's shotgun and leveling it through the window at this evil thing in the tree. I never had handled so large a gun, however, and I put that thought away.

But there came a thought, close upon the heels of that fantastic one which gave me a thrill of hope. I put my hand back of me, without moving away from the window, and groping along the table where I had laid my hat and wraps, my fingers closed upon the large shopping bag which I always take with me in the motor car. Opening it, still using but the one hand, I pulled out its contents and strewed them around the table. Lillian sometimes—more often in the old exciting days of the war, but occasionally since in times when we have been aiding my father in secret work for the government, has slipped into my purse—yes—here it was—my fingers closed upon the tiny silencer pistol of which Lillian had given me years ago, and the use of which she had taught me. She must have put it into my bag in the morning, knowing that I would object to carrying it—I have an antipathy to the thing, but being determined that I should have its protection, and knowing that I would discover it sooner or later.

With the feel of it against my palm, courage came back to me and I looked up into the tree again, smothering a little shriek of terror as I saw the face of the Chinese peering out from the branches and realized what he was doing.

I have read of the rope ladder of Raffles, but I do not think it was any more cunning or effective than the contrivance of knotted cord which the Chinese threw over a branch, fastened in some way which I could not see, and by means of which he descended, hand over hand to the ground.

He was about to disentangle the rope with a long flexible cane like a fishing-pole of jointed bamboo when I spoke steadily from the window behind him.

"Do not touch that rope. Drop your pole and go away from here quickly if you do not wish to go to prison."

I do not know myself why I gave him the chance of freedom, but I think it was the subconscious fear that if I released for a single instant the advantage I had in the possession of the little pistol, he might hurt the Tigers in the attempt to get at me.

He turned, not swiftly, but as if he had been expecting some word from me, and looked at me. I had expected a glare of fierce anger, for of course he knew that mine was the hand which had thrown the missile shattering the glass. He had shielded his eyes and the lower part of his face—I guessed by a quick dodging movement or an instinctive throwing up of his arm, and his only wound appeared to be a cut upon his forehead which continually dripped blood over his face, and which he had vainly attempted to stanch. He was a fearsome and repulsive sight, but the thing which frightened me most was the lack of emotion in his eyes. They held still the blank inhuman expression which I had noted before, and again I had the feeling that a machine, not a man, stood before me.
